Strong background in nautical affairs.

Style of mediation and expertise:

Clients find me reliable and recommend me for being able to create a confidential setting in which they are able to set their differences aside and focus on their common interest in order to agree on the best solution possible.

Mediation is a cost effective solution for almost every dispute. Professional counsel (lawyers, surveyors and other) are most welcome during the sessions while their input is usually helpful in finding a fast and good agreement.

After a first intake with the separate parties we plan a central meeting in which the issues are discussed face to face. If necessary we break for individual sessions (caucus) with individual parties.

We mediate in order to create a level playing field in which both parties are winning, alternative to time consuming procedural disputes resulting in loss of the (commercial) relation.
